

ABSTRACT

The inventive system allows a consumer to scan product tags and have the scanned 5 information transferred to a website via a network, where the consumer can either manually or automatically transfer the information therefrom to one or more desired retailer network sites.